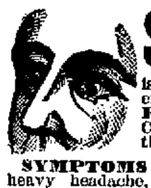
SICK HEADACHE,

Billous Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Billous Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.



$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

AMERICANS ABROAD.

A Correspondent Throws Some Light on Generally-Accepted Statistics.

This matter of American travel, more especially as to the volume of it, is greatly misunderstood in America, and even by the tourists themselves, writes a Rome correspondent.

Like the Dutchman's pig that moved about with such celerity that he was counted several times, and thus greatly increased the aggregate of the litter, the American tourist is liable to several enumerations. He tears himself away from his business for a few weeks. He must do Europe in a given time and be back at his desk at the day and hour appointed. So he keeps moving. He is recorded once at least in every city he visits. Sometimes he is recorded several times in the same city—at his hotel, his bank, at an American exchange, perhaps, and at a club. This makes four distinguished Americans out of a single humble individual. But this is not all. He takes a certain city—let us say Paris—as his headquarters, and makes transient visits to it several times during the same season. All this gives a pretty sum in addition which the far-away journalist in America works out with that talent for exaggerated mathematics in which imagination often plays so important a part. This young man's fancy lightly turns to these elaborate problems in the spring. Then it is published in the New York papers and telegraphed all over America, that all outgoing steamers are crowded; that every berth is engaged several months ahead, and that never before was there such a tide of travel setting toward Europe, The estimate of the number of going abroad begins, perhaps, at 50,000 and runs up to over 100,000 in the more imaginative newspapers. It would appear to the unthinking as if free America were being depopulated in favor of the monarchies of the old world.

It will do no harm to let a little light into these high-pressure statistics, though it is really a fact that a great many Americans do go abroad annually, probably five times or ten times as many as there would be of any other nation situated so far from the various European Meccas to which the devotees of travel are wont to make pilgrimages. The season of the great European hegira is brief. It scarcely begins before late in May or June, and the pressure is over by August. There are more or less persons always going, but this represents the bulk of the early season travel. Did any of these lightning calculators ever stop to think how many steamers it would take, as travel goes, to carry across the Atlantic even 30,000 passengers. It would require 100 steamers, supposing every one carried 300 American tourists. How many steamers carry of this class in excess of this number, or for how long a time is this average maintained? For a few weeks only, if at all, and most of them sail from New York. Americans are by no means the only passengers who travel by the Atlantic steamers. A large proportion are English, while there are always representatives of every European nation. It would hardly be necessary to go further than these suggestions to explode the fiction, but Paris may be taken as a further illustration.

It goes without saying that all good Americans who go to Europe go to Paris, unless the force of circumstances is too strong for them. It is barely possible that a thousand or two may be found in England or on the continent every year who are unable to visit the French capital. These are in England on business; are of German descent, and make a visit to the fatherland; are medical students at Berlin or elsewhere in Germany, or go by the Dutch or Belgian lines to Antwerp or Amsterdam to do the low countries, and go up the Rhine. They are a small fraction of the great whole. The rest usually go direct from New York to London, where they stay a few days before departing for Paris, or they choose the Havre line which, since the new steamers have been placed on it, is convenient and expeditious. I received not long ago various estimates of the number of Americans coming to Paris every year, taken all of them, as the professional statisticians say, from the most reliable sources, such as Paris journalists, steamship agents, persons connected with traveling agencies, and others competent to give them. The minimum estimate is 15,000, the maximum 30,000. The correct figure would probably be between 20,000 and 25,000, which is not a small number, and as few of them are ever at rest or remain a long time in the same place, and as some of them get counted several times, they convey the impression of a much greater multitude. There are more or less of them who come every season, either to pass the winter in Paris or on the Mediterranean. There is a class, and not a small one, who are floating residents of Europe, not identified with Paris, nor the Mediterranean, nor London, but every year visiting these places, and making from them the tour of favorite localities in Spain, France, Italy, Germany and Austria. They move hither and thither like the restless ocean driven by the winds. They fluctuate like the tides. They are slaves of the season only, being necessarily more or less dominated by heat, cold, storm and sunshine. Otherwise, their wayward will is their only law of movement, and so they go on till this mode of living becomes essential to their existence, and like the hero of the Odyssey they find themselves unable to rest from travel. Such ceaseless wandering only ends with the grave.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Champion of the Mule.

Bloomington Eye: At last a champion has been raised up—a brave and noble champion of the despised mule. The name of this savior of the mongrel quadruped is John M. Palmer, and it is his worthy purpose, by a single act, to exalt the mule from his ignoble position to one of incomparable nobility. Gen. Palmer will expunge the paltry eagle now used as a crest upon our national coat of arms and replace that meaningless bird with the rehabilitated mule. Hereafter the armorial bearings of the American Republic will represent a mule rampant gardant, heels shyant and ears defiant. In the coming campaign Gen. Palmer will boldly display the mule as the new emblem of our republican sovereignty.

Prohibition Candidate for Vice-President.

ANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—Dr. John A. ooks, Prohibition candidate for Vice-resident, arrived home yesterday in an enthusiastic frame of mind. He declares that Mr. Fiske and himself will work hard whenever business will permit, and will make a thorough canvass. The party ex- spend fifty thousand dollars for re and orations. He declares that Geo. W. Bain were never in con- out the Vice-Presidency, but un- od each other before the convention met. A large increase on St. John's vote is looked for this fall, but will depend a contingencies, of which he declined to speak. He expects to meet Gener Fiske and the National committee in Chicago in the near future, and decide on the campaign details. He will remain in the city until formally notified of his nomination.

An Early Morning Murder.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 4.—J. B. Clearborne, night clerk at the Hotel Ruffner, shot and instantly killed Nelson Lee, colored, employed as waiter, at five o'clock yesterday morning. The Nomination of Mr. Cleveland a Foregone Conclusion—Speculation as to the Vice-Presidency.

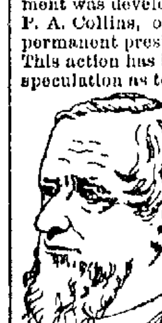
The Ohio Delegation Not at All Unanimous for Thurman—The Other Candidates.

Scenes and Incidents In and About the Hotels—Caucuses and Conferences —The Convention Hall.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The bright, bracing weather of Saturday and yesterday, following the sultry, disagreeable weather of the preceding week suggested to delegates and others attending the convention a renewal of the phrase "Cleveland weather". The whirl has begun, the crowd increases hourly, and the rotunda of the Southern Hotel, which is the principal headquarters, has been crowded yesterday and to-day. Conferences of members of the several delegations began at an early hour this morning.

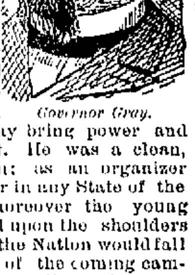
Saturday night the executive committee which, as heretofore outlined in the United Press dispatches, agreed to recommend the selection of Lieutenant-Governor White of California for the temporary chairmanship, and a strong sentiment was developed in favor of General P. A. Collins, of Massachusetts, for the permanent presidency of the convention. This action has had a tendency to renew speculation as to who will secure second place on the ticket with Mr. Cleveland. Unquestionably, Judge Thurman is even more favorably regarded than ever. Bright and early yesterday morning the friends of the "Old Roman" were at work in his behalf, and in every hotel they could at once be identified by the miniature bandannas that nested in their button-holes.



Allen G. Thurman.

Shortly after breakfast, the California delegation held a caucus in one of the committee rooms of the Southern for the purpose of discussing the situation. It occurred to some of Governor Gray's friends that this would be a favorable opportunity to present the claims of the Indiana candidate, and so they sent in a request for a hearing. The Californians acquiesced, and in a few minutes Congressman Matson, Judge Holman, Charles L. Jewett, chairman of the Indiana State committee, and Charles G. Offut appeared upon the scene.

By this time news of what was going on had reached the rotunda, and in a twinkling the room and the outside lobby were packed. All four of the Indianians made vigorous speeches, intended as much to influence the outsiders as the California delegation. They said that next to the President, Governor Gray was the one man upon whom the eyes of the Democracy were fixed. With him in the second place on the ticket, victory would be assured in November. Just as Hendricks, they said, contributed his full share to the election of Cleveland in '84, so would Gray bring power and strength to the ticket. He was a clean, able, successful man; as an organizer he was without a peer in any State of the Union. He was moreover the young men's candidate, and upon the shoulders of the young men of the Nation would fall the work and burden of the coming campaign. The delegation listened attentively, but said never a word; nor did the audience by clap or cheer, give any encouragement to the orators. When they had retired, the Californians again went into caucus and decided to hold another meeting this morning.

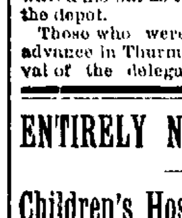


Governor Gray.

All the Indiana talk however, is not for Gray. There are a good many hailing from that State who are endeavoring to throw cold water on the Governor's prospects. One of these is William Henderson, of Indianapolis, a relative of the late Vice-President Hendricks. He has been giving it out that Gray is obnoxious to a large element of the party in that State; that his Know-Nothing record of 1854 would compel the party to go on the defensive; that he is always wanting office, and is in fact a Democrat for revenue only; that, on the other hand, Thurman's nomination would electrify the country, and command the solid vote of the State.

Gray's friends do not like this talk, coming as it does from one of their own party, even from the capitol city; but they can't help it, and so they content themselves with denying that there is any real division among the Indiana Democrats on the question of Gray's candidacy. They are distributing badges with the inscription "Cleveland and Gray" to everybody that will accept them, and nothing is being left undone to make it appear to the arriving delegates that the Governor is the man of the hour.

The Ohio delegation, with the State central and executive committees and invited guests to a total of about three hundred, arrived yesterday. They came from Columbus on a special train as the guests of Calvin S. Brice, the Lima millionaire, and one of the delegates-at-large, and according to all accounts had a decidedly hilarious time of it en route. At Midland City, were a short stop was made, they encountered Governor Foraker, who was en route in the opposite direction, and treated him to an informal reception, giving him rousing cheers, and falling in line to shake him by the hand. The Governor might have doubted the sincerity of his political opponents, but he took the affair good naturedly, all the same, and waved his hat as the special moved out of the depot.



Governor Foraker.

Those who were expecting a general advance in Thurman stock with the arrival of the delegation, were doomed to disappointment. In fact, it had hardly reached the Lindell Hotel when some of its members began to talk up Ex-Congressman Rice, the one-legged soldier of Ottawa, as an available candidate for the Vice-Presidency. Rice was a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor in 1879 on the Ewing ticket, which was beaten by Foster, and has since been twice defeated for Congress. Governor Foraker recently appointed him a member of the State Board of Pardons, but the honor was promptly declined. One of the stories whispered about to-day in support of his availability was to the effect that Tilden was so anxious to have him on the ticket in 1876 that he promised to put thirty thousand dollars into the Ohio campaign in the event of his nomination.

Rice, who came in with the delegation, was on deck all day in one of the parlors of the hotel, where he held a continuous levee, but his boom has not yet succeeded in getting into the open air, much less into the other hostelries. One of the Ohio delegates said last night: "The mossbacks of our party, who are in the minority, favor Thurman. The majority are divided, with leanings toward Gray."

General Thomas E. Powell, one of the delegates-at-large, said: "We shall have a meeting to-day, when matters have shaped themselves better than at present. If we find that the Thurman movement is general, then Ohio can do nothing else than to give him a solid support. Otherwise its strength will be split up. The statement that I shall present his name to the convention is incorrect. It will probably be done by somebody from the West."

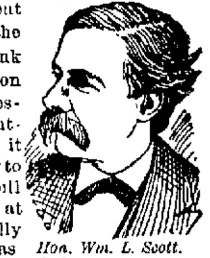
The Oregonians yesterday attempted to spring a new candidate for the second place in the person of Governor Pennoyer, of that State. The boom did not materialize, however, and they have about decided to go into the convention with the rest of the coast delegations for Thurman. The delegations from Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Iowa, Montana, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Alabama, Ohio, North Carolina, Illinois, New Jersey and New York will be on the ground by midday.

Tammany Hall will be received by the Hendricks Club this morning, and escorted to its quarters. The Cook County Democracy and the Iroquois Club and Jackson League of Chicago will be met this morning by the Vest Club and escorted to the Lindell Hotel.

Hon. Wm. R. Morrison, who heads the Illinois delegation, was surrounded by a large group of Washington correspondents yesterday afternoon at the Southern Hotel, all of whom greeted him cordially, and after discussing the situation, asked his opinion regarding the probable nominee for Vice-President. The Colonel replied that he had not gotten that far along, and until he found out what was going on he could not venture an opinion.

Chairman Barnum of the National Committee is very careful not to commit himself on the Vice-Presidency. He thinks that the tariff plank of 1884 would do very well this year. Senator Gorman is said to agree with Mr. Barnum on this question, but the indications point to an ultimate agreement to indorse the policy laid down in the President's message.

Hon. Wm. L. Scott, of Pennsylvania, has little to say respecting the platform, but it is very evident that he expects the adoption of a plank based specifically on the President's message. He apparently does not think it will be good policy to indorse the Mills bill in so many words at this time, especially as that measure has been materially amended since it came from the committee, and since it was so emphatically indorsed by the Democratic Convention of Pennsylvania.



Hon. Wm. L. Scott.

Mr. J. W. Dorsey, a prominent Nevada mine owner, is of opinion that failure on the part of the convention to protect the interests of the silver men on the Pacific slope will cost the party thousands of votes, as, in his opinion, the Republicans will insert a free coinage plank in their platform.

Delegate Lyons, one of Colorado's cattle kings, hearing a remark to this effect, made by Mr. Dorsey, retorted: "Its mighty little chance we'll get at that platform. Bill Scott has it in his grip. The people in the East seem to think that we are incapable of taking care of ourselves, or of knowing our own wants."

One of the friends of General Black, the Commissioner of Pensions, states that that gentleman's name will be presented for Vice-President by Mr. John Patterson, of Colorado, the brilliant orator who recently made a speech at the Iroquois Club banquet, at Chicago, and the nomination will be seconded by General Sims, a crippled ex-Confederate soldier of Mississippi.

General Black.

Still, it is a question whether the names of either Black or Stephenson will be presented to the convention. Little or nothing is being heard of the candidacy of either.

Mayor Ames, of Minneapolis, who is here with a few of the delegates from Minnesota, in advance of the general party, is working quietly, and his friends say that in the event of any dark horses coming to the front he will be found among them, and that his popularity in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota, which States they claim he can certainly carry, would be a powerful argument in his behalf. There will be a caucus of the full delegation this morning, when the question of submitting his name at the outset of the nominating will be determined. The mayor himself is said to be opposed to any "complimentary vote" plan, preferring to remain out of the field entirely, unless an opportunity develops of springing his name with some prospect of respectable support.

There was a great turnout of Gray's supporters at the Union depot yesterday afternoon to meet Senators Voorhees and Turpie, who arrived direct from Washington. The "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash" and his colleague were escorted to the Lindell Hotel, where a great crowd collected and cheered ten minutes or more. The Senators repeatedly acknowledged the welcome, but could not be persuaded to respond to the cries of "Speech" and finally escaped into the dining-room.

The Randall Club of Philadelphia, with a Cleveland and Thurman banner; the Record Club of the same city, headed by Ex-Attorney-General L. C. Cassidy, also shouting for the Ohio man, and the Hendricks Club of Indianapolis, in white hats, white gloves, Gray badges, and with a military band, were among the arrivals yesterday.

Inspecting the Convention Hall and Its Decorations.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Ten thousand St. Louisans and a scattering of delegates responded last night to the invitation of the local committee to participate in the formal opening of the north nave of the Exposition building and to view the decorations which have been completed for the forthcoming convention.

What struck many of the delegates at first sight, and was freely commented on, was the fact that in its proportions the nave is any thing but suited to the purposes of such a gathering. In dimensions it is but 98 feet in width against a depth of 384 feet, and as a result the majority of the delegates will be seated away back in the rear, where a bugle will be necessary to get the ear of the presiding officer; while the latter in turn will need a field glass to locate the individual who may be seeking recognition.

Between the chair and the front row of delegates' seats there is a space of sixty feet in depth, which will be occupied by the representatives of the press. The latter will thus be directly between the delegates and the chairman's platform, instead of the latter's coming between the press tables to within a few feet of the first row of seats, as was the arrangement in the Chicago Convention of 1884. This, again, will increase the difficulty under which the officers must necessarily labor. The chairs on the stage are arranged in tiers, and will accommodate about a thousand special guests. In the center is the chairman's platform, carpeted with red velvet, and just large enough to accommodate a table and chair. Two steps below is a similar platform for the secretary. Wooden posts, with silver cords, separate this portion of the stage from that allotted to the guests, and the general arrangement suggests a miniature pulpit of a Presbyterian Church.

As for the decorations, they are lavish and high-colored, and back of the chair hangs an oil painting of the President, while above, with a gilt eagle between them, are portraits of the two deceased ex-leaders of the party, Messrs. Tilden and Hendricks. None of the pictures are characterized by any degree of fidelity.

The galleries are draped with bunting, red, white and blue, alternately raising and drooping in general folds; either side of the lower gallery, toward the stage, being relieved with a background of bunting with colored stars.

As a bas relief to the canvas there are banners with the coats of arms of the States and Territories, and the principal cities, and a plentitude of card-board eagles, painted in gaudy colors.

High up in the air the stars and stripes flutter from the supports to the roof, and the front of the stage, as well as the tables, are decorated in harmony with the rest of the building. Under the glare of hundreds of electric lights, the general effect, if not elaborate or highly artistic, was pleasing, and many of the St. Louisians, as they left the building, declared audibly that it was the grandest thing they had seen in their lives.

RECOVERED FROM HIS LASSITUDE.

BERLIN, June 3.—The Emperor passed a better night last night. His lassitude is gone and he feels stronger. This morning he drove in the park about the palace at Potsdam, and afterwards spent considerable time in the garden. At six o'clock this evening the Emperor and Empress, accompanied by Dr. Mackenzie, drove in an open carriage to Crown Prince William's palace, where they remained an hour.

RESOLVED TO RESIGN.

LONDON, June 4.—The Cologne Gazette states that the council on Friday, with Bismarck presiding, resolved to resign, but Emperor Frederick insisted that his letter of complaint to Herr Puttkam should accompany the Quintennial Land bill.

CAN NOT BE VERIFIED.

BERLIN, June 3.—Nothing can be learned of the reported intention of Prince Bismarck to resign.

Italy.

THE IRISH BISHOPS' REPLY TO THE POPE'S RESCRIPT.

ROME, June 3.—The document prepared by the Irish Bishops has reached Rome. It admits the right of the Holy See to interfere in questions of morality. Therefore, the plan of campaign and boycotting fall under this head. The Bishops receive the rescript with reverence, but they are, however, constrained to remark that the Holy See is not well informed concerning the facts they condemn. They should be considered in the light of the circumstances that gave rise to them, and as means of defense be considered legitimate resisistance. The document adduces data to prove that disputes between tenants and landlards are of a political character, and have nothing to do at all with religion and morality. It concludes with renewed expressions of devotion and respect for the decisions of the Holy See. It is reported that Mgr. Persico opposed the publishing of the rescript as inopportune.

THE POPE PAINED.

ROME, June 3.—The Pope corrected yesterday the proofs of the allocutions of Friday's consistory, and authorized their publication. After condemning the provisions in the new Italian code affecting the clergy, the Pope says: "What causes us the greatest pain is the desire to maintain, at all hazards, the conflict between Italy and the Papacy, which we, from love of the church and our country, wish to terminate. The desire displayed by States to make war upon the church is folly, which is hurtful to all who attempt it, and especially so to Italy."

France.

PEACEFUL ASSURANCES REITERATED.

PARIS, June 3.—Count Hoyos Sprintzstein, the Austrian Ambassador, called on M. Goblet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, after the latter's speech on Thursday, and reiterated the peaceful assurances made by Count Kalnoky and Herr Von Tisza, and declared that no affront had been intended to France by the latter's speech.

REJECTED THE BOULANGIST PROPOSAL.

PARIS, June 3.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday rejected the Boulangist proposal to institute passport rules counter to those of Germany.

Ireland.

PROTEST INDORSED.

DUBLIN, June 4.—A monster meeting was held yesterday in Cork, in the city park, at which the resolutions formed at Dublin, protesting against the Papal rescript were indorsed. Mr. William O'Brien boasted that the Irish party had the support of the Bishops of Ireland, and said that the leaders wished to drop the agitation against the decree if possible, but if necessary it would be continued.

BEAT THEM BOTH.

DUBLIN, June 3.—In a mile bicycle handicap race here yesterday, Temple, of Chicago, was first, and Woodside second. In the mile bicycle race, Temple was first and Wood, of England, second.

DOM PEDRO IMPROVING.

LONDON, June 4.—Emperor Dom Pedro is improving. He will take his departure for Aix-les-Bains this morning.

Precipitated into a Ravine.

BALTIMORE, June 3.—The north-bound passenger train on the Annapolis & Baltimore Short Line, met with a serious accident yesterday, while rounding a sharp curve near Marley's Station. The engine and tender left the track, taking the passenger cars with them. All were precipitated into a ravine. None of the few passengers aboard escaped injury. Horace Tydings and wife, of Annapolis, were seriously injured. The engineer, fireman and baggagemaster were also injured. A number of others also received slight injuries.

Mrs. Rawson Indicted.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Mrs. Rawson was indicted for the attempted murder of Attorney Henry C. Whitney Friday in Judge Jamelson's court-room by the grand jury yesterday morning. Mrs. Rawson passed a restless night in the county jail, and did not arise until late yesterday morning. She looked pale and haggard, and it was evident that the intense excitement under which she was laboring Friday had not passed away. Lawyer Whitney was very comfortable yesterday morning, and in a fair way to get well.

Taken from Jail and Lynched.

AUGUSTA, GA., June 4.—Allen Sturgis, who was locked up in jail at Thompson, Ga., for robbery and incendiarism, was taken out about one o'clock yesterday morning by a gang of masked men and lynched. Sturgis' body was found at daylight hanging from a tall oak tree. None of his family would touch the remains, and they were turned over to a medical college.

Death of Silas B. McClelland.

Silas B. McClelland, one of the old residents of Decatur, died Sunday night at 11:25 o'clock at his home 511 West Macon street in the presence of his wife and four children, aged 63 years, 6 months and 14 days. The deceased had been in poor health since last October when he contracted a cold. On May 8, he was taken to Osceola, Iowa, by his son Frank, to visit his two sisters and while there he become quite ill. He was brought home Tuesday, May 29th, and since then he has received the constant and watchful care of his family.

Mr. McClelland was born in Holmes co., Ohio, Nov. 19, 1824, and he came to Decatur with Abram Kramer in 1852. He purchased a quarter of a block on East Main street and engaged in the wagon-making and blacksmithing business alone for awhile, afterwards being associated with A. Kramer in the enterprise. In March '73 he sold out to Mr. Kramer and removed to his farm in Moultrie county, where he resided until the fall of 1880, when he returned to Decatur where he has since resided. On Aug. 30, 1856, Sophia Whitehurst, of Ohio, became his wife. The surviving children are B. F. McClelland, principal of the public schools at Sullivan, Ill., Mrs. Ida B. Stout, wife of Joseph Stout; Mrs. Lillie Walker, wife of I. D. Walker, and Sherman McClelland, all of Decatur. The fifth child, Katie, died in 1876, aged nearly 7 years. Mr. McClelland will be remembered as one of the earliest and most successful business men of our city, a man of strict integrity and very methodical in his habits. He became a member of the United Brethern church when 20 years of age, and for 43 years he has been one of the liberal contributors to that denomination, besides lending his aid to other societies and doing what he could to advance the growth of Decatur. Realizing that he might pass away soon the deceased had settled all his business affairs and had signed his will. He had lived a blameless and exemplary life and was prepared for the final summons.

The funeral will take place from the family residence at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, Rev. L. Field officiating.

The Election.

The election for supreme and circuit judges is in progress to-day in Decatur and throughout the counties in the districts. The polls will close at 7 o'clock this evening. This is the busy season with the farmers and consequently there will be a light vote, but Judge Wilkin and E. P. Vail will be elected without doubt. Every Republican should make it a point to vote. In the sixth district 76 votes had been polled up to noon, 32 in the fifth at the same hour, 69 in the seventh, 49 in the tenth.

Mr. James Robinson, the champion bareback rider of the world, appears at each performance. Everybody remembers the wonderful Elliott family and the educated horses that appeared in our opera house last winter, and everybody will go to see them again. Mr. Coup has decided to put the price of admission for Decatur only at 10c for children and 20c for adults.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club will be held at the Universalist church Tuesday afternoon, June 5th, at 2 o'clock p. m. The annual election of officers will be held. Since the Chatsworth disaster the Wabash has put track walkers on the line in time of the running of extra trains —such as Saturday and Sunday nights when delegates were taken through to the national democratic convention. On the east end Saturday evening at 6 o'clock a track-walker went on duty. He was tired and sat down to rest on the end of a tie. He fell asleep. A train came along and hurled the man from the track down the embankment. The train stopped to gather up the remains, but the chap was O. K.—thoroughly shaken up and ready to perform his duties.

Next Sunday will be Children's Day in the Presbyterian church. In the morning Rev. W. H. Prestley will preach a sermon to children, and in the evening he will preach a sermon to the young men and young women.

Public Reception To-night.

The new hall of Dunham Post 141, G. A. R., in Powers' new block on South Water street, will be thrown open to-night, when everybody is invited to call. Col. J. A. Sexton, of Chicago, department commander, and other noted gentlemen will be present.

Reception from 8 to 11 o'clock. A committee consisting of Comrades Geo. S Durfee, F. M. Young, C. M. Imboden, F L. Hays, Norman Pringle, T. J. Abel, J M. Blythe, R. J. Roberts, M. F. Kanan, G. A. Hurd, L. Barnard, J. M. Blythe, J. A. Barnes, A. C. Waterhouse, W. J. Wayne, Hiram Johnson, K. Harwood, P. B. Williams, W. W. Shockey, and H. F. May will be in attendance to entertain visitors.

The Runaway.

This forenoon considerable excitement prevailed on East Main street as the D. C. Moffitt gray team came tearing down the street from Lincoln Square and dashed at the front of Linn & Scruggs' store, the brick curbing checking the wagon and preventing the team from doing any damage to the store. There was a load of brick on the wagon, weighing nearly 4,000 pounds, but nevertheless the team was going at a terrific rate, scattering the people and vehicles along the route. Near the square the runaways came in contact with a team that was hurled on the walk, and Edwin Philbrook's pony phaeton standing in front of Powers' Block was sadly wrecked. The daughters of Wm. Voorhees, jr., were seated in the family carriage near by and barely escaped injury. The driver, Mr. Russell, had left the Moffitt team standing in the street near the alley at Caldwell's livery stable, when the horses started, breaking into a run as they rounded the circle in the square. Drivers of all teams cannot be too careful. A runaway through our streets is always fraught with great danger to life and property. The Moffitt wagon was damaged considerbly.

Mr. H. B. Turner, representing Mr John P. Edwards, of Quincy, Ill., is in the city interviewing our people in the interest of a new map. If he can get a sufficient amount of patronage his house will publish a very complete map of the city, showing all lots and blocks, addition subdivisions, and streets. From the sample shown us we believe the map which they propose to publish will be a very desirable work. We need a map of the city. Very great changes have been made since our last map was published. We think that our people ought to be interested in this project, and we believe they will. We hope that Mr. Turner will receive encouragement which will justify his house in going ahead and giving us a better map than we have ever yet had. We refer our readers to the following which we clip from the Quincy Daily Whig:

Mr. John P. Edwards is now distributing his new map of Quincy to subscribers and those who get it are fortunate, for it is the best and most complete map that was ever published in this city. Every addition can easily be traced, and the altitude of all the street intersections above low water mark is given. The map is perfect in every particular and reflects great credit on Mr. Edwards.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

They Take Breakfast at the Union Depot on the Way to St. Louis.

The Wabash this morning at 5 o'clock ran a special train of 11 chair cars and sleepers into Decatur, having on board over 380 members of the New York county Democracy, all bound for St. Louis to attend the National Democratic Convention, which opens to-morrow to go through the formality of nominating Cleveland. Col. N. A. White had arranged to breakfast the hungry excursionists and he did it in fine style, serving all who wanted entertainment in the dining hall and at the lunch counters. About 200 of the party took breakfast, the balance being served in the dining car attached to the train.

Quite a number of Decatur people were on the platform to get a look at the representatives of New York city democracy. The impression made was not flattering to the party, for fully 70 per cent. of the party embraced what was considered the toughest specimens of ward politicians that ever struck Decatur. They were mostly foreigners. Before seeking anything to eat, the gang made a break for the saloons on the levee, but the reader can best imagine their disgust when it was found that the gin-mills were closed, as this is election day. One of the party was the noted Thomas Costigan, a ponderous ward politician weighing 350 pounds, with rolls of fat on his neck as large as an ordinary man's arm. He could just squeeze through the car door. The cars were labeled with streamers, and on each rear platform were barrels of ice and bottles, indicating that liquids were on tap.

There were 20 New York city reporters in one sleeper. There were but comparatively few delegates and alternates on board. The party was mainly boomers for Cleveland from Gotham.

Two hours earlier the Iroquois club and Chicago delegates passed through on the Wabash vestibule train for St. Louis

The Red Stars defeated the South End Sluggers Saturday by a score of 18 to 17 on the grounds back of Schenney's brick yard. The batteries for the victors were Cooper and Hollinger. On the other side were King and Martin.

The Old Overland Mail Coach.

A thoroughly realistic scene in Pawnee Bill's Wild West show is that of the robbery of the overland mail coach. One of the identical old stage coaches used in years gone by to carry the mail on the distant frontier, and was often the object of attack and pillage, is used in this famous frontier tableau. All participants are old plainsmen, scouts, savages, and the driver is a veteran "knight of the whip," who formerly drove a coach over the Fort Sill and Cheyenne route. No better illustration of the perils and vicissitudes of the early pioneers can be given than that furnished by the history of the overland stage coach. It is a heavily built coach and intended for a team of six horses or mules. It has the usual thick "perches," "jacks" and "brakes" belonging to such a vehicle. It has a large leathern "boot" behind and another at the driver's foot-board. Owing to the long distances and the dangers, the drivers were always chosen for their coolness, courage and skill. A vivid and blood-stirring illustration of an attack on one of these coaches will be given. Over a half hundred Indians make the attack and as many cow boys, scouts and frontiersmen make the rescue. This is only one of the many illustrations of frontier life given by Pawnee Bill and his Wild West show at the base ball park on Saturday next.

An Appeal for Alms.

To all benevolent persons:

The undersigned would respectfully represent that the Sny Levee on the Mississippi river, that formerly protected about 100,000 acres of land and embracing a territory fifty-two miles long and about seven miles in width, has been overflowed by the breaking of the levee, the water spreading through the entire district, thereby destroying all of the crops and driving from their homes the residents and many of whom were tenants of the levee districts, causing many to loose all they possessed of worldly substance and causing a large number of families to be dependent upon charity. And as the demand is so great, we feel justified in asking aid for those who have been providentially reduced to poverty; and as their needs are more than the ability of our district to supply, we ask all who have sympathy and means to aid us until until such time as we can help ourselves. We ask money and provisions of all kinds, and we will carefully and equitably distribute the same. This appeal, being made for industrious people and covering a territory about eight miles in length, which has not been presented by any committee to our knowledge, we present, being officers and committees appointed at a regular meeting held at Hull, Pike Co., Ill., May 29, 1888.

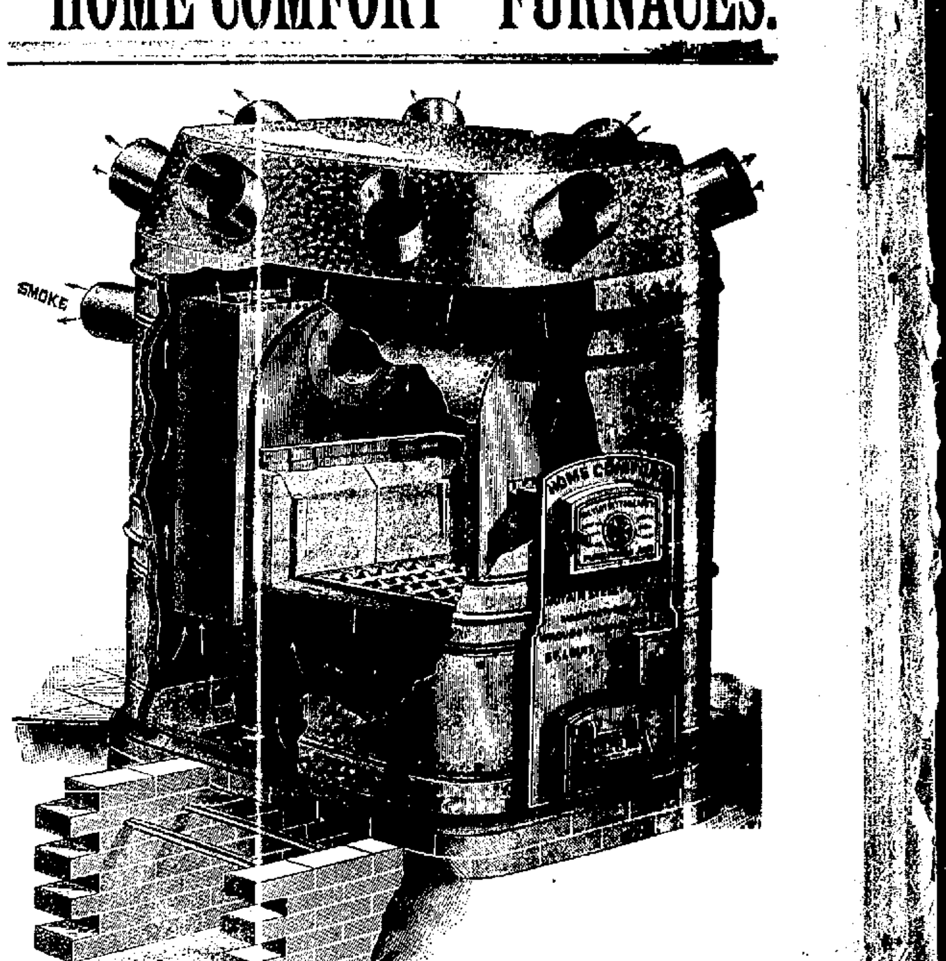
"HOME COMFORT" FURNACES.



NO GAS, No Dust, Very Little Fuel,
Wrought Steel, Mallaeable Iron, No Leaky Joints.

No one can say that the time was not ripe for a new furnace. The days of brittle, porous, cast iron furnaces are numbered. In every branch of manufacture cast iron is being driven out by wrought iron and steel. Every bridge that goes down in a wreck of lives and property is found to have cast iron members. Every bursting cannon which slays its friends rather than its enemies is made of cast iron. Every leaky furnace which poisons a household with its noisome gases is found to be made of the same cheap, unreliable material. Improved methods of manufacture have made steel and iron plate, of first quality, less expensive than cast iron formerly was, and it is plainly in accord with progress in other directions that there should be progress both in design and the material of furnaces for warming our homes, churches and schools.

FAIRIES OF IRELAND.

The Place They Occupy in the Mythology of the Emerald Isle.

No small share of the Irish mythology is taken up with the accounts of fairies and their doings. Fairies are fallen angels, condemned to live on earth till the day of judgment, gifted with supernatural powers, capable of conferring substantial benefits and inflicting signal injuries. Hence they are spoken of with profound respect as "the good people," and are much feared, for instances of their ability to do good or evil are too well known to be disputed. One of the most signal illustrations of their powers is given in the following story:

The fairies are so open-handed and generous that they detest the contrary qualities, and seldom neglect to punish them whenever an opportunity offers. There was once a farmer in the south who by stinginess had amassed a considerable fortune, and even after he became wealthy he noticed every thing that passed on his farm, and before the servants were awake in the morning he would be up and on the watch to see that nothing was wasted. One morning, while so engaged, he passed a small copse near the house, when, he heard a fairy child cry to its mother: "Mother, I am hungry!" "Never mind, my child. The maid will milk and I shall make the cow kick over the pail so you may drink." But the farmer ordered the cow's legs to be tied, so the milk was saved. The next morning he heard the cry again, when the fairy mother promised to make the maid let the batter for the cakes fall, so the child might eat, but the farmer ordered that no cakes be made that day.

The third morning the cry was repeated, when the fairy mother quieted her child, telling it the grave of the farmer's son was ready, and on the third day he should die in battle and the curse be lifted from the poor. But the farmer laughed for there was no war. When he went home he found his son sharpening his spear and whetting his arrows, for the messenger of the King had come to summon him to war. So the stingy farmer locked up the young man in the house, determined the fairy curse should not be fulfilled. Then he went out to the copse and scoffed at the fairy. But when he went back to the house the youth had escaped, for the fairies had made a hole in the wall, and on the third day he was brought back to his father's house a corpse. The farmer died of grief at the sight, the two were buried in one grave in the thicket, and the curse was lifted from the poor.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
